

OPEN SYMPOSIUM

The Future of Public Conservation Lands and Waters

With a third of Aotearoa New Zealand in public conservation, what visions and challenges exist for its future development and management?

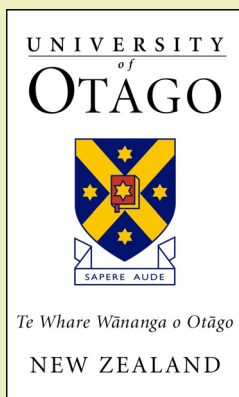

Come partake in this lively symposium led by some of the University of Otago's leading researchers from the Divisions of Humanities, Commerce and Science on the possibilities that abound for the future of public conservation lands and waters.

Special guest keynote addresses by:

Hon Tim Groser
Minister of Conservation

Alistair Morrison
Director-General of the Department of Conservation

8:30am - 1:00pm
Friday 10th July 2009
Hutton Theatre
Otago Museum
FREE ENTRY

Hosted by the Research Cluster for Natural Resources Law

For more details see: www.otago.ac.nz/law/nrl