In this special Matariki issue:
In this special issue of Library Link we celebrate Matariki and Maori Language Week with a selection of recently published articles and theses on Maori health. Our sources for these have been research archives in New Zealand universities as well as databases.

Maori health research Contents by topic
• General
• Mental health
• Oral health
• Primary care and community health
• Child health
• Rehabilitation
• Public health
• Heart disease
• Flu pandemic

Library Link aims to develop and promote relevant library resources and services in partnership with staff of C&CDHB and staff and students of UOW.

Recent research on Maori health

General

The health status of Māori nursing students : a cross-sectional survey / Panapa, Shahana (2009)

'A kind of ritual Pakeha tikanga'– Maori experiences of hospitalisation / Barton, Pipi (2008)

'I cannot see what makes the difference except race': representations of Māori health, 1880-1920 / Robson, Carey (2007)
Accessing journal articles

Having difficulty getting hold of any of these journal articles?

Please contact our staff who can assist you to access journal articles.

Phone x5561 or email medlibref.wsmhs@otago.ac.nz

Mental health

Enhancing Māori mental health workforce: "Te Rau Puawai o te kawakawa o te ora" / Koia, Monica Ngaine (2010)

Oral health

Primary care and community health

Organisational prerequisites to fund, implement and sustain Maori health promotion in a primary care setting / Brown, Rachel (2010)

Child health

Poutama I & II

2007

By Gina Matchitt

Computer keys, hardboard and silicon adhesive
Rehabilitation

Public health

Heart disease

Flu pandemic