

SEMINAR

Department of Public Health

University of Otago, Wellington | 23A Mein Street | Newtown | Wellington

Where might mobilities 'go'?

With a growing history, the mobilities paradigm now blurs the boundaries between many disciplines in the social sciences and beyond. This seminar will reflect on the challenges of current conceptions of mobility and ask if using a resilience framework could focus thinking about mobility for a more sustainable future for travel, leisure and work.

Friday 4 July

Small Lecture Theatre, University of Otago Wellington

12:30pm - 1:30pm

Dr Tara Duncan is a lecturer in the Department of Tourism at the University of Otago. With a background in geography, her research interests focus on lifestyle mobilities, the complexities of youth budget travel and, more recently, academic mobility, specifically framed within the climate change, transport and mobilities literature.

All welcome. This is also a keynote address for the 5th NZ Mobilities Symposium. More at: <http://sustainablecities.org.nz/news-events/>
