Table 1 provides the list of 23 movies (4.6% of the 503 identified) that were selected for further viewing and ranking. Our final prioritised selection of ten movies (with at least two movies for each of the four topic areas) is also shown in Table 1. In Table 2 is the full list of 503 movies considered, along with reasons why they were excluded from further consideration.

Table 1: The final selection of 23 movies within the four top topic areas, i.e., those with reasonable artistic/entertainment value (released from 1960 onwards, a “Rotten Tomato” (RT) score of ≥ 7.5 , and related to a major area of mental health)

Movie title (Year)	RT average score (/10)	Collective ranking by the authors (1=best)	Description / comments
Depressive and anxiety disorders
Ordinary People (1980)	7.8	3	This movie covers “both major depression and post-traumatic stress disorder” (PTSD). The role played by the psychiatrist has been described as particularly positive. ¹ Praise for this movie has been noted in the literature. ²
Silver Linings Playbook (2012)	8.2	8	This movie is a romantic comedy but has quite detailed content around the lead character’s bipolar disorder. The main female character has unclear mental health issues (possibly a borderline personality disorder) and the father may have an obsessive compulsive personality disorder.
Le Feu Follet (1963) (the Fire Within)	7.7	Ruled out*	This movie was ruled out on the grounds of being particularly grim with no substantially positive role played by any health professional. The nature of the lead character’s depression seems very existential in nature and the approach to treating his alcoholism seemed very outdated.
The Secret Garden (1993)	7.8	Ruled out*	This movie was ruled out as the mental health aspects were considered too unrealistic.
Illicit drug use
Trainspotting (1996)	8.3	1	This movie provides insights in the various problems associated with heroin use. It shows the problems of crime, urban squalor, withdrawal experience, death from HIV/AIDS, and death from neglect (death of infant). One character (Begbie) shows extreme sociopathic tendencies (violent attacks on others). There is extensive poly-drug use: especially smoking and alcohol use. Various aspects of the movie are also considered in the literature. ^{3 4}
Winter's Bone (2010)	8.3	4	This movie provides an excellent portrayal of survival in a difficult drug-using environment. The lead character is shown to deal strongly with a situation of poverty and the production and use of methamphetamine in the community. The mother’s mental illness is unclear (possibly depression) and some of the other characters exhibit sociopathic and aggressive tendencies.

Movie title (Year)	RT average score (/10)	Collective ranking by the authors (1=best)	Description / comments
Rachel Getting Married (2008)	7.5	7	This movie deals with drug dependency and recovery (the main character participates in a 12-step programme). Various forms of both family support and family dysfunction (e.g., the detached mother) are shown. At times the level of narcissism by the main character is quite marked – so a narcissitic personality disorder is also a possible additional diagnosis.
Half Nelson (2006)	7.6	9	This movie is about drug culture and drug addiction (the lead character is dependent on crack cocaine). A possible limitation from an educational perspective is that it is just too grim and no therapeutic interventions are involved (the main character says that rehabilitation has not worked in the past for him). The lead character's life seems to be a downward spiral of more dysfunctional relationships, episodes of violence and (apparently) losing his job. The life of a student, involved with the main character is also grim and we see her graduation into drug dealing. The teacher-student relationship portrayed has some unprofessional and inappropriate aspects.
Drugstore Cowboy (1989)	8.0	Outside top ten	This movie details drug culture and the associated crime (e.g., robbing pharmacies). The main character eventually goes into rehab but it is difficult for him to extricate himself from his past life. Limitations with this movie are its various unrealistic aspects (e.g., the main characters may seem too well dressed and good looking to be drug dependent). It is referred to in the literature e.g., by Cape ³ (addiction issues) and in Castaldelli-Maia et al ⁴ and Robinson 2003. ¹
21 Grams (2003)	7.5	Ruled out*	Ruled out as the drug use content was not a strong enough theme.
Blue Velvet (1986)	8.6	Ruled out*	Ruled out due to the disturbing content (e.g., sexual sadism) and lack of educational value around the portrayal of the drug abuse aspects.

Alcohol use disorders

Another Year (2010)	8.2	2	This movie details heavy drinking by several of the characters and shows how deeply embedded the nature of alcohol use is in many people's lives. Depression and chronic unhappiness are also major themes. It shows various health professional activities (especially counselling) in a positive light and the character portrayals are particularly rich.
Passion Fish (1992)	7.7	10	This movie shows the alcoholism of the main character and the other major character has recently been in rehabilitation for cocaine dependency. A possible limitation from an educational perspective is that the "treatment" of the main character's alcoholism is fairly simplistic and somewhat unrealistic. The movie also shows some of the social problems arising from drug dependency (the daughter of the nurse Chantelle has been removed from her mother's care).
Days of Wine and Roses (1962)	9.0	Ruled out*	Considered too dated in terms of the movie style and also the management of the alcoholism.
The Spectacular Now (2013)	7.8	Ruled out*	A coming-of-age drama that includes a lot of teenage drinking. But ultimately the consequences of the drinking were not very significant. It is more about boy-girl and boy-parent relationships and facing up to various challenges of growing up for teenagers (e.g., life after high school).
Long Day's Journey into Night (1962 film) (also 1987)	8.2	Ruled out*	This movie has characters with alcohol problems and morphine dependency. But it seemed fairly dated (the setting was in the year 1912). The 1987 version is also relatively long (at 169 minutes).

Movie title (Year)	RT average score (/10)	Collective ranking by the authors (1=best)	Description / comments
Leaving Las Vegas (1995)	7.7	Ruled out*	Ruled out due to the very grim outcome and low educational value around how alcoholism is portrayed.
A Woman Under the Influence (1974)	8.4	Ruled out*	Ruled out due to the fairly unrelentingly disturbing nature of the main characters illness and the low educational value (her alcohol problem is mixed in with somewhat unclear other diagnoses).
Psychotic disorders
The Devil and Daniel Johnston (2006)	7.5	5	This movie is a documentary about the life of a musician/artist who is described as having a bipolar disorder (but which could be considered to be more the features of a schizoaffective disorder). It richly details many aspects of the impact of his illness on Daniel's life, including on his creativity and on his friends and family. Nevertheless, it does not deal with treatment aspects to any significant degree (i.e., no health professionals are interviewed). For some viewers the "outsider" and "lo-fi" music genre may have limited appeal.
An Angel at My Table (1990)	7.5	6	This movie covers the early life of a famous New Zealand writer (in real life – Janet Frame). There are aspects of the movie which support varying possible diagnoses e.g., schizophrenia (reflecting the thinking of the time). This movie is covered in the literature, ⁵ along with discussions around her diagnosis (e.g., the alternative possibility of high functioning autism, ⁶ with this debated in subsequent published letters responding to this journal article on the autism topic).
Spider (2002)	7.5	Outside top ten	This movie gives a detailed representation of a person with a psychotic illness. It suggests a role for past adverse life events in causing this illness. It is favourably referred to in the literature. ⁵ Nevertheless, the violence in the movie could be considered problematic (in terms of reinforcing negative stereotypes around mental illness and violence).
Through a Glass Darkly (1961)	8.7	Ruled out*	This movie shows a person with a psychotic illness who eventually needs to be re-hospitalised. It is referred to in the literature. ⁵ However, it was ruled out as the movie style seemed very dated and the treatment approaches were also very dated.
Clean, Shaven (1995)	7.8	Ruled out*	Ruled out given the grim content (including murder scenes and self-mutilation scenes) and also the adverse outcomes (with no psychiatric interventions involved). Nevertheless, it has been praised by at least one psychiatrist. ¹

* Ruled out by at least one author, and usually at least two authors (for the reasons as stated in the right-hand column).

Persona (1966)	Off topic	8.9	92	NYU – “Mental Illness” complex psychological issues – not relating to the 4 areas in this study. In the Rosenstock 2003 article: exploring identity issues and “does she have schizophrenia”.
Three Colors: Blue (1993)	Off topic	8.5	100	NYU – “Suicide” suicide attempts, From the NYU site: seems to be about grief – so not endogenous depression? (Though also mysterious blackouts).
Deliverance (1972)	Off topic	8.5	94	More about psychological aspects – masculinity. In Fritz & Poe 1979.
Murderball (2005)	Off topic	8.4	98	NYU – Depression, “Suicide”. “Better known as Wheelchair Rugby.”, “the personal stories of the athletes who are passionate, driven, and determined to win – as one of them says, “I’m not here for a hug, I’m here for a medal.”. Reason excluded: Hard to see the psychiatric aspects in the RT piece or the NYU one. Seems more about normal human psychology – at the more competitive and driven end of the spectrum.
Heavenly Creatures (1994)	Off topic	8.2	94	Obsessional, fantasy world. In Rosen et al 1997. In Robinson 2003: Shared psychotic disorder.

Movie title (Year) – ordered alphabetically	Classification	RT average score (/10)	RT freshness score (%)	Comment
Memento (2000)	Off topic	8.2	92	From NYU: seems about mainly memory impairment (from injury) and also grief in reaction to wife's murder. The main character also commits a revenge murder. NYU – “Suicide”.
The Piano (1993)	Off topic	8.2	90	Mute character – psychogenic? In Rosen et al 1997.
Talk to Her (habla con ella) (2002)	Off topic	8.1	92	From NYU – more about the psychology of relating to comatose patients. NYU – “Suicide” (of one of the characters in prison).
The Station Agent (2003)	Off topic	8.0	95	NYU – Depression. RT blurb: “a four-foot-tall lonely man who chooses to live the life of a hermit in an abandoned train yard following the death of his friend.” NYU: “This oddball, intriguing, serious and funny film”... Fin–short for Finbar–is an achondroplastic dwarf and a taciturn lover of trains.” Reason excluded: Doesn't sound like depression – too bizarre.
The Death of Mr. Lazarescu (2005)	Off topic	8.0	93	NYU: Set in Bucharest – very grim. Excessive drinking has contributed to his health problems. Reason excluded: Too grim and it seems that the focus is not really on alcoholism – but more how this individual gets treated by the hospital system.
American Beauty (1999)	Off topic	8.0	88	Many themes re body image, meaningless lives, rigidity, desperation.
Zelig (1983)	Off topic	7.9	100	In Hyler 1988 article. In Robinson 2003: Avoidant personality disorder. Reason excluded: Seems a bit too bizarre.
Performance (1970)	Off topic	7.9	83	In Castaldelli article. From Wikipedia – mainly about psychological issues – re masculinity, homophobia etc. “graphic sexual elements”. “ Performance pushed boundaries by featuring explicit sex scenes and drugs, which have been rumoured to be real instead of simulated.”... “ Performance was not only the greatest seventies film about identity, if any movie in the whole Story of Film should be compulsory viewing for film makers, maybe this is it.” Reason excluded: Off topic.
The Madness of King George (1994)	Off topic	7.8	93	In Tarsitani et al: “mood disorders due to a general medical condition”. In Robinson 2003: General medical condition. Reason excluded: Off topic.
Shock Corridor (1963)	Off topic	7.7	93	In Datta article. Reason excluded: Off topic.
Mystic River (2003)	Off topic	7.7	87	NYU – “Mental Illness” – a mysterious drama (about a murder). NYU: “Mystic River is a crime investigation film woven together with a psychological case history.” Psychological issues are grief, and dealing with past sexual abuse, and “stigmatization of Dave's emotional problems”. Reason excluded: Touches, but doesn't focus on, mental illness themes.
About Schmidt (2002)	Off topic	7.7	85	Reason excluded: Not in top 4 mental health topics. More a character study from the RT bit
Kandahar – Journey into the Heart of Afghanistan (2001)	Off topic	7.6	89	NYU – “Suicide” threat around suicide attempt. Also disturbing aspects of the Taliban regime. NYU: “The sister was maimed by the long war, and her life under oppressive Taliban rule is no longer worth living; she has resolved to commit suicide on the last solar eclipse of the century.” ...”The premise seems contrived, the tone is at times preachy, the dialogue is unnaturally exalted and the staging, stiff. For example, Nafas has a penchant for pronouncing poetic platitudes and a roadside robbery seems clumsy and banal—perhaps intentionally.” Reason excluded: Probably not really about mental illness – more just the psychological responses to a brutal regime.

Rain Man (1988)	Off topic	7.6	88	NYU – “Mental Illness” about an autistic-savant – Reason excluded: Off topic.
Monsoon Wedding (2002)	Off topic	7.5	95	NYU – Depression. Romantic comedy. The RT & NYU items do not suggest psychiatric aspects – more just cultural collisions, social class issues etc.
Children Underground (2001)	Off topic	7.5	94	From NYU. About Romania and unwanted children who are living on the streets & the underground. Mainly the psychological problems of poverty and child abuse. Reason excluded: Off topic.
The Sea Inside (Mar Adentro) (2004)	Off topic		84	NYU – “Suicide”. NYU: Quadriplegic man seeks / euthanasia. Excluded as it seems that the main character does not have a mental health disorder – more about the psychological issues.

Psycho (1960)	Other	9.0	97	In Datta article. Hitchcock classic. In Hyler 1988 article; contributes to split personality myth. Reason excluded: Too much horror, see also comments by Hyler.

Movie title (Year) – ordered alphabetically	Classification	RT average score (/10)	RT freshness score (%)	Comment
Repulsion (1969)	Other	8.9	100	RT: “A psychological thriller in the vein of Alfred Hitchcock's Psycho (1960)”. “Carol begins to disintegrate mentally, hallucinating bizarre encounters, being forced into taking a sabbatical from her job and ultimately committing a pair of murders in her deranged state.” Reason excluded: Too horrific.
One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest (1975)	Other	8.8	96	NYU – Depression, mental illness, suicide. In Datta article, Akram article. Hyler – very critical of it. In Robinson 2003. Reason excluded: Too dated relative to modern psychiatric care.
Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? (film) (1966)	Other	8.6	97	Wikipedia list (alcohol). RT: “George (Richard Burton) is an alcoholic college professor” Wikipedia: Martha is “hard drinking”. Reason excluded: The alcohol issues seem fairly back ground aspects – it is mainly a black comedy with dysfunctional relationship issues and verbal sparring.
The Shining (film) (1980)	Other	8.5	92	Wikipedia list (alcohol). Reason excluded: Horror movie not suitable. Includes murders and supernatural aspects – ghosts.
In Treatment (2008 on)	Other	8.5	86	About a psychotherapist. Reason excluded: Too long - is actually a TV series (many hours of episodes).
Silence of the Lambs (1991)	Other	8.4	94	In Rosen et al 1997. Stereotype of “Dr Evil”. Reason excluded: Seems too horrific re portrayal of a psychiatrist in this role.
Withnail and I (1987)	Other	8.4	93	In Cape article (addiction issues). Comedy. Pill popping. Shows acute cannabis effects in a 2 minute segment. Reason excluded: The drug use seems not so linked to addiction/dependency.
M*A*S*H (the movie) (1970)	Other	8.4	90	For 1970 version, 1983 version NR. In Robinson 2003: malingering Reason excluded: Mental illness theme too minor.
Million Dollar Baby (2004)	Other	8.3	91	NYU – “Suicide” Reason excluded: Sounds more like a psychological portrayal – a woman boxer doing well. From the NYU bit: More about euthanasia and also about the boxing career.
Man Facing Southeast (Hombre Mirando Al Sudeste) (1986)	Other	8.3	86	NYU – Depression, “Mental Illness”. Argentine film. In Rosenstock 2003 article. Reason excluded: The science fiction and supernatural powers seem to make this film too bizarre.
The House I Live In (2012)	Other	8.0	94	About “failure of the war on drugs” in America. Reason excluded: Seems more about the politics of drug control and the system design – than details around the mental health aspects of drug use.
Traffic (2000)	Other	8.0	92	Reason excluded: More about the larger scale drug trafficking problem – than specific aspects of drug dependency.
Shine (1996)	Other	8.0	91	In Rosenstock 2003 article: mixed comments. In Rosen et al 1997. In Datta article. In Robinson 2003. Reason excluded: The published article on “Shine” – is negative about the portrayal and the educational value of this movie. From the Wikipedia piece it is also a bit unclear what the diagnosis is likely to be?
An Autumn Afternoon (1962)	Other	7.9	92	Wikipedia list (alcohol). Reason excluded: From the piece in RT – sounds like relatively small role of alcohol. Japanese film – unclear if there are English subtitles.
The Verdict (1982)	Other	7.8	96	Wikipedia list (alcohol). Reason excluded: The main character's alcoholism is mainly just a background feature – and doesn't stop him successfully winning his court case.

Samson and Delilah (2009)	Other	7.8	94	About Australia. Has relevant social and inequality issues. Reason excluded: Covers glue sniffing – but not one of the top drugs of abuse.
The Tennant (1976)	Other	7.8	90	Paranoid schizophrenia. In Fritz & Poe 1979 – but they note some critics: “tedious and overdone”. Reason excluded: Given comments by Fritz & Poe.
The Tropic of Cancer (1967)	Other	7.7	100	Reason excluded: In Hyler 1988 article – critiques as invasion of privacy – was subject to legal bans due to this.
Once Were Warriors (1994)	Other	7.7	94	Alcoholism – Jake, and drug addicted boyfriend. In Rosen et al 1997. New Zealand context. Reason excluded: Too grim and violent.
Affliction (film) (1997)	Other	7.7	87	Wikipedia list (alcohol). RT: Alcohol and cannabis (implies both the son and father are alcoholics). Wikipedia: Mentions drunken behaviour by the father (Glen Whitehouse) and drinking by the main character (after father is killed). (In Robinson 2003) Reason excluded: From Wikipedia it seems more about obsessional behaviour (and dysfunctional relationships) than the impact of alcohol. Also sounds very grim with no favourable outcomes.
Dead Ringers (1988)	Other	7.7	83	Horror, gynaecologists. [NYU] Amphetamine dependence. NYU: “Dead Ringers is a fascinating and disturbing exploration of the physician’s identity and the frightening capacity for distortion and impairment inherent in such a demanding role.” Reason excluded: Seems too horrific and disturbing.
Frances (1982)	Other	7.6	93	Stresses on an actress, alcohol, mental breakdown. In Hyler 1988 article. NYU – “Mental Illness”. NY: “pressures of the film industry are causing her drinking problem” ...”After undergoing the closely filmed experiences of the strait jacket, the padded cell, and shock treatment, all in the frighteningly bedlam-like atmosphere of the asylum, Frances submits to psychiatric surgery. This is perhaps the most disturbing part of the film. She is lobotomized in front of an audience by a mallet-wielding surgeon who boasts he can do ten patients per hour because “lobotomy gets ‘em home.”” “The film’s representation of psychiatry is one-sided and profoundly critical.” Hyler – unrealistic. Reason excluded: Seems to show very out-of-date approaches to mental health problems (re lobotomy). Also Hyler’s comments.
Sid & Nancy (1986)	Other	7.5	92	About Sid Vicious (Sex Pistols) – drug addiction (heroin) and death. Reason excluded: Seems too grim i.e., “very sad” and just seems a downhill and violent saga.
Seraphine (2008)	Other	7.5	89	NYU – “Mental Illness” unclear what the mental illness is. NYU: “Spiralling downward deeper into poverty and mental alienation, Séraphine continues to paint works that grow larger, bolder, and more colorful. Finally her bizarre behavior leads to her arrest and committal in an insane asylum, and her painting ceases.” Based on a true story. Reason excluded: Diagnosis sounds unclear. Also sounds like out-of-date treatment with institutionalisation and also a sad ending.

Movie title (Year) – ordered alphabetically	Classification	RT average score (/10)	RT freshness score (%)	Comment
Santa Sangre (1989)	Other	7.5	88	From RT: “this terrifying, psychedelic film”, sounds like a horror film, mixed with madness. Reason excluded: Too horrific.
Donnie Darko (2001)	Other	7.5	85	From RT – looks very bizarre. Wikipedia – science fiction like. In Robinson 2003: “sleepwalking disorder”. Reason excluded: Too bizarre a story.
Healing Words: Poetry & Medicine (2008)	Other			NYU – Depression. Documentary. Only 60 minutes. NA in RT.
Holding Our Own: Embracing the End of Life (2007)	Other			NYU – Depression. Documentary. Too short at 57 minutes. NA in RT.
Illness as Experience (1998)	Other			NYU – Depression. NA in RT. Too short – only 25 minutes.
Singing Myself a Lullaby (2000)	Other			NYU – “Suicide”, Depression. Too short at 60 minutes. NA in RT.
Worlds Apart: A Four-Part Series on Cross-Cultural Healthcare (2003)	Other			NYU – Depression. Four separate videos. Running time too short at 48 minutes.
Hamlet (various different productions eg, 1996)	Other			Madness is too minor a theme and is probably of a contrived and artificial nature (especially Hamlet’s). Literary scholar recommended.
Jane Eyre (various productions eg, 2011)	Other			Madness is probably too minor a theme – and is of an unclear nature. Literary scholar recommended.
Annie Hall (1977)	Other	8.9	98	“Generalized anxiety disorder” – Robinson (2003). Exclusion reason: There is plenty of anxiety but often seems unreal (for comedic effect) and the situation is very 1970s New York (with analysts etc) – so seems somewhat dated.
Manhattan (1979)	Other	8.6	98	“Generalized Anxiety Disorder” (In Robinson 2003). Exclusion reason: Anxiety disorders but similar to Annie Hall – this is an unusual context (1970s New York – so somewhat dated).
The Deer Hunter (1978)	Other	8.5	92	“PTSD” (In Robinson 2003). Exclusion reason: Although seems good portrayal of PTSD in various forms – PTSD is probably a relatively small part of the anxiety disorder spectrum. May seem a bit dated re the Vietnam war.
The Hospital (1971)	Other	7.8	100	“Dysthymic Disorder” (In Robinson 2003). Exclusion reason: Plot looks a bit bizarre (in RT), also there is a complex interplay with alcohol (as detailed in Robinson 2003).
Easy Rider (1969)	Other	7.8	86	Hallucinogen Intoxication (In Robinson 2003). Exclusion reason: Drug use fairly incidental
Insomnia (2002)	Other	7.7	92	“Circadian Rhythm Sleep Disorder” (In Robinson 2003). Exclusion reason: Too smaller part of theme (RT)
The Double (2013)	Other	7.6	93	In Ali 2013. “The film can certainly be viewed as a dramatized narrative of schizophrenia depicting its negative symptoms of anhedonia, lack of social engagement and its positive symptoms of visual and auditory hallucinations.” Exclusion reason: DVD not available
In the Name of the Father	Other	7.6	95	“Hallucinogen Intoxication” (In Robinson 2003). RT – nil on this issue. Exclusion reason: Too smaller part of theme (RT)

Movie title (Year) – ordered alphabetically	Classification	RT average score (/10)	RT freshness score (%)	Comment
True Romance	Other	7.5	92	“Cannabis Intoxication” (In Robinson 2003). Exclusion reason: Cannabis use somewhat incidental to main themes.
Hoosiers (1986)	Other	7.5	88	“Alcohol Dependence” (In Robinson 2003). Role of recovering alcoholic. Exclusion reason: From RT doesn’t seem that the alcohol theme is that strong.
The Butcher Boy	Low score	7.4	78	“Bipolar Disorder” (In Robinson 2003).
Scarface	Low score	7.4	88	“Cocaine Intoxication” (In Robinson 2003).
