

Otago Global Health Institute 13th Annual Conference: Shared humanity and global health

2020 McKinlay Oration

Keynote address by Dr Robert Huish

*The consequences of using ancient methods for modern-day pandemics:
Understanding the consequences of stigma from COVID-19*

Dr Robert Huish will discuss his current work on cultural stigma and COVID-19:

- Which public health orders and social responses fuel stigma, and which ones mitigate it.
- The need for pandemic planning to go beyond “flattening the curve” or “containing the virus”.

Dr Robert Huish is Associate Professor in International Development Studies at Dalhousie University in Halifax, Nova Scotia. His research covers a wide range of topics such as global health, social justice, and the consequences of sanctions and embargoes.

11 November | 5:30–7pm

Otago Business School, Union Street East, Dunedin | Free admission

For more information and to register, go to otago.ac.nz/oghi
For enquiries, email oghiconference@otago.ac.nz

Registration is required for COVID-19 contact tracing purposes.

