

Department of Preventive & Social Medicine Strategic Plan 2023-2026

Improve, protect, and promote public health locally, nationally, and internationally through excellence, advancement, and development in public health research, teaching, and service.

Planned action

What we want to focus on over the next three years

5-year goals

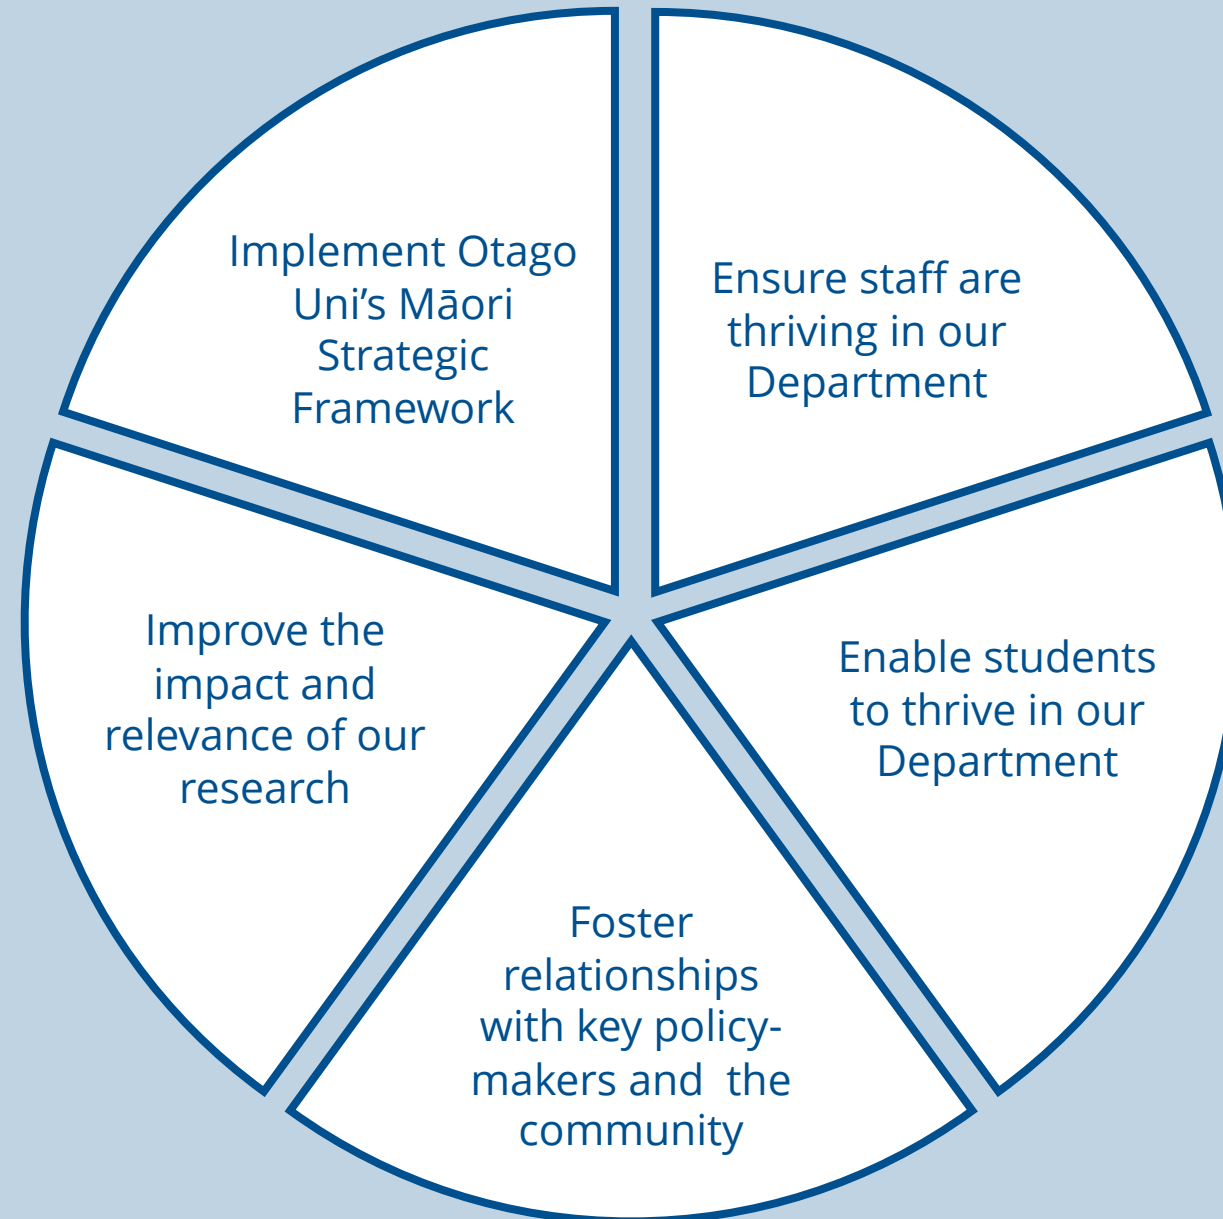

Departmental Review 2023

Engagement with Student Reps

A stocktake of service roles

Planning Day ✓

Staff thriving survey ✓

- Stable and happy Department
- High research productivity
- Strong local, national, and international profiles
- A great place to study
- Strong relationships with Māori/mana whenua
- An environmentally sustainable Department

INDICATORS OF SUCCESS

- More successful grant applications
- More publications in high quality journals
- Higher student enrolments
- Excellent student feedback

CONSIDERATIONS / CHALLENGES

Funding constraints
Loss of research units
Lack of Māori and Pacific staff
Dysfunctional University processes

STRENGTHS / OPPORTUNITIES

Excellent and committed staff
Diversity of research activity
High profile of public health since COVID