Senior Teaching Fellow - Psychological Medicine

The Role | Te mahi

The Department of Psychological Medicine (Dunedin) advances psychological medicine through the integration of academic and clinical expertise in psychiatry, clinical psychology, and health psychology.

We are seeking a Teaching Fellow to contribute to teaching within the MB ChB programme, and the Royal Australian and New Zealand College's Formal Education Course, Registrar programme, in 2027. This position will play an important role in supporting the delivery and ongoing development of the curriculum, helping to equip future medical graduates with the knowledge, skills, and professional capabilities required to work effectively in the field of psychological medicine.

The role includes convening responsibilities for the Year 6 programme and the Registrar Teaching programme, along with supporting teaching, assessment, and curriculum initiatives across the Department.

Key responsibilities include:

- Convening responsibilities
- Supporting the development and delivery of course materials.
- Assisting with the administration and coordination of the MB ChB programme and Registrar programme.
- Collaborating with academic teaching and research staff
- Supporting strategic projects and initiatives that enhance teaching and curriculum development.
- Contributing to assessment activities and associated administration.
- Assisting with teaching-related operational and documentation requirements.

Skills and Experience | Kā pūkeka me kā wheako

To be successful in this role, you will have:

- A medical qualification (eligible to work in NZ) as a Consultant Psychiatrist. We would consider Senior Psychiatric Registrars who are close to completing their fellowship.
- Teaching experience in the field of psychological medicine (preferable)
- Strong organisational and administrative skills.
- The ability to work effectively both independently and collaboratively.
- A commitment to Te Tiriti o Waitangi, equity, diversity, and inclusion.
