

University of Otago, Dunedin, New Zealand 1-4 December 2019

Abstract Guidelines – Late Posters

Submission Deadline 31 October 2019

The Organising Committee is pleased to call for papers covering the full diversity of transcription research, for the 16th Asian Conference on Transcription, to be held at the University of Otago in Dunedin 1-4 December 2019.

The 2019 Conference will include sessions on genetic and epigenetic mechanisms of gene transcription in prokaryotes and eukaryotes, chromatin structure, cancer biology, antimicrobial resistance, developmental biology and genomics.

Call for papers for oral presentations has now closed.

Conference Website: <https://www.otago.ac.nz/actvi2019/index.html>

Important Dates:

Submission Deadline Late Posters	31 October 2019
Authors Advised:	05 November 2019
Earlybird Registration Rate Ends:	15 October 2019
Authors to be registered by:	1 November 2019

Formats

The Committee invites you to submit abstracts for consideration as a poster presentation. All submissions will be subject to a selection process by the Committee. The Committee will allocate abstracts to the programme taking into account the quality of each abstract and the balance of the programme.

Guidelines for Submission:

- Use a Word document eg; .doc or .docx
- Abstracts must be no more than 250 words in length
- Title must not exceed 125 Characters (including spaces)
- The names, organisations, states and email addresses (optional) for each author (underline the presenting author)
- Do NOT include symbols, tables, pictures or diagrams within the abstract

Please email your abstract (word document NOT pdf) to the Conference Organiser sally@events4you.co.nz by 31 October 2019