

News in Brief...

New Professor of Global Health

In late 2011 a second endowed professorial chair will join the Centre for International Health as the McKinlay Chair of International Health; Associate Professor John Crump, who currently heads a research centre in Tanzania for the Duke University Medical Center and the Duke Global Health Institute.

Welcome to our network

Sophia Leon de la Barra, Research Fellow & Statistician, Preventive and Social Medicine, University of Otago

Ms Leon de la Barra's research interests include:

- Statistics & data analysis
- Programme evaluation
- Health policy evaluation
- Collaborative research mentoring
- Organic urban farming
- Aboriginal & Torres Strait Islander health

What are your interests?

We'd like to hear from you! Do you have collaboration ideas that you'd like to share with OIHRN network members? Do you want to hear about members' research? What information would you like to see in this newsletter?

Contact cih@otago.ac.nz.

Time to Register

4th Annual OIHRN Conference
7 & 8 November, 2011

The 4th annual OIHRN conference is just around the corner! We encourage you to attend the conference to connect with colleagues on international health issues and to learn about current research projects in New Zealand and around the world.

Please see www.otago.ac.nz/internationalhealth for programme details and to register.

The McAuley Oration sponsored by the Centre for International Health

James and Jean Davis Prestige Visiting Fellow
Professor Myron M. (Mike) Levine

Grollman Distinguished Professor of Medicine
University of Maryland School of Medicine

Colquhoun Lecture Theatre
First floor Dunedin Hospital
Monday 7 November
5.30pm

Vaccines, social equity and international health

ALL WELCOME

Member Profile

Onalenna Seito-Kgokgwe, Centre for International Health

The Centre for International Health (CIH) would like to wish Onalenna Seito-Kgokgwe well as she finishes her PhD and returns to Botswana. Onalenna graduated from the University of Botswana with a Bachelor of Education in nursing, Johns Hopkins University (USA) with Master of Science in Nursing, and the University of Limpopo (South Africa) with Master of Public Health (double major in Health Systems Management and Policy and Social and Behavioural Sciences). Onalenna is the first PhD student at the Centre for International Health and her research is in the area of health sector reforms, assessing the impact of the organizational restructuring of the Ministry of Health in Botswana on health sector performance. In Botswana, she will continue her work in this area in the government sector.

Onalenna Seito-Kgokgwe