Guidelines

Please detach the following section and retain it for your own information

These guidelines are intended to assist with your application. Before proceeding with your application, you must make sure you have read and understood the regulations (available separately) and are eligible to apply for these scholarships.

General Information

This scholarship was established to support students in the Departments of Human Nutrition or Food Science who are intending to enrol full-time for an Honours degree or in the papers of a Master's degree in either Human Nutrition or Food Science or Consumer Food Science.

Process of selection

Applications are considered by the following

- The Bee Nilson Scholarship is awarded based on academic achievement. The number of awards may vary from year to year.
- The advice, recommendation and ranking of the Heads of Departments of Human Nutrition and Food Science. The Scholarships Office contacts the relevant Heads of Departments in early December for assessment.

Academic record

- We will obtain a current transcript.

What happens next...

- Your application will be acknowledged by email. Please be aware that this may take up to a week after the application has been received by the Scholarships Office.
- Letters notifying the outcome of applications for this award will be posted to all candidates before 24 December.
- Please keep the Scholarship Office informed if you change any of your contact details.
- The offer of a Scholarship or Award does not guarantee a place in the Department. You should apply separately for admission to your course.
- If successful, please be aware that it is necessary to enrol at the beginning of each year for the course of study for which you have received the Award. Tenure of the Award does not mean that annual enrolment procedures can be ignored.
- Please note that this award is exempt from any tax implications.
