The Hocken Collections hold an extensive array of records relating to businesses in New Zealand, particularly for the Otago and Southland region. Many significant New Zealand businesses originated in Dunedin and had their head offices located here. The records cover varying stages of business operation from harvesting, extraction, and importing to manufacturing and retailing. Check the other Hocken research guides available at <https://www.otago.ac.nz/library/hocken/otago038951.html> as the industry you are interested in may be covered by one of those e.g. Agriculture, Food and Cookery, Mining, etc. There are also many Friends of the Hocken guides available via the same link that may be relevant.

There are University of Otago Library subject guides <https://otago.libguides.com/> on Accounting, Economics, Finance, Management, and Marketing that provide suggestions on how to locate relevant material.
