

ACCESS TO YOUR THESIS AUTHOR DECLARATION

The University of Otago, as a research-intensive institution, champions the philosophy that the purpose of research is to seek the truth and to extend the frontiers of knowledge. In accordance with this belief, the University affirms that the results of such research, which have been presented in thesis form, should be made available to others.

In completing this form you acknowledge that you understand that any person who accesses either the hard-bound or e-thesis version of your thesis may use it in accordance with the provisions for 'fair dealing' set out in Section 42 and 43 of the New Zealand Copyright Act. This includes:

- (i) making reasonable quotation from it, provided that proper acknowledgement is made, for the purposes of criticism, review or news reporting; and
- (ii) making a single copy of a reasonable portion of it for the purposes of research or private study.

Regardless of the access that any person may have to your thesis, you retain copyright in your thesis, as outlined in the University of Otago 'Intellectual Property Rights of Graduate Research Students Policy' (IPRGRS) Policy. Note that there are exceptions to this where, for example, your work was externally funded and restrictions were agreed on the dissemination of certain information (see IPRGS Policy section 8). If you have any doubts discuss this with your supervisor.
