

Pronounced “JAY-store.” Online, searchable archive of scholarly peer-reviewed journals and other materials.

1. How can you search JSTOR?

Enter a search term at www.jstor.org.
“Bird,” for example.

2. What can you do with the resulting list of items?

Search within results; see images in JSTOR; sort oldest to newest or newest to oldest.

3. Need to refine the search even more?

Use Advanced Search.
Limit to author, item title, full length article, publication date, language, journal, discipline, and more.

4. Already know what article you are looking for?

Use the Citation Locator or Browse.

5. Found some useful articles or items?

Save the citations in your MyJSTOR account or download the PDF file.

6. Want more help?

See “Help,” “Contact us,” or watch the tutorials.

