

Assessing the performance of low-e window films using an infrared camera

---

- Windows can be a source of high heat loss
- Lower emissivity allows for a higher reflection
- Use an infrared camera to determine the energy performance of the low-e films on windows
- This summer project's aim is to develop a low cost and efficient method to evaluate these low-e films

