University of Otago Libraries

The University of Otago has a world-class library to support staff and students engaged in teaching, learning and research.

Library resources are increasingly available online as e-journals and e-books and these are particularly useful for Distance students.

Subject Guides are a valuable resource and Subject Librarians can help you in your area of study- click on the "Subject Guides" link on the Search page to select from the range of topics and for librarians contact details at otago.ac.nz/library/search-library/index.html

Distance students and the Library

The Library has been supporting Distance students for more than 30 years, as long as the University has been offering distance courses.

We understand the challenges that go with studying off-campus and have developed a guide to Library services for Distance students. You can find a link to this on the Library's home page: Guide for Distance students

On the guide you can find information about how to request books using Library Search | Ketu, to be sent to your home address (a free service within New Zealand), and have scans of articles and book chapters emailed to you.

Renewals, Recalls, Overdues, Library Fines and Library Notifications

- Due dates: Most books will automatically renew a few days before they are due, our Library system will renew books up to three times before they need to be returned.
- All books may be Recalled by another borrower, at any time, and an earlier due date automatically assigned.
- A fine of $3 per day will be charged for any item that has been recalled and becomes overdue.
- Replacement costs will be charged for all lost books, these charges will be waived if the book is returned.
- Notification of recalled and overdue items is sent to your student email account: otago.ac.nz/studentmail – please check it regularly or get these emails redirected to an email account you access regularly.

The Recall process and how it affects you as a borrower

- Library items that are “On Loan” can be recalled (requested) by another library user at any time.
- If an item you have on loan has been recalled, you will be notified by email (sent to your university email address)
- The item that has been recalled will be given a new return by date.
- Library users have seven days to return a recalled item (but this can vary).
- “Overdue recall” items are fined at $3 per day so it’s important to get them back for the due date to avoid fines.
- Distance students who live in areas with mail delays should contact the library if they are not able to get their recalled books back the due date.

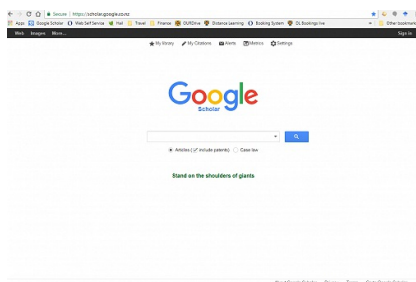

Tips for Effective Searching

The Librarian for your Subject area is a great person to talk too for help using specific databases

You'll find Subject Librarians at otago.libguides.com/liaison.

If you want more general search tips, check out the Library Self-help guide otago.libguides.com/selfhelp, especially the Searching & Evaluating and Finding Books & Articles pages (as shown below).

Google Scholar as a Research Tool

Google Scholar limits web search results to academic, peer reviewed literature.

It's great for getting a broad idea of the research in your topic area, finding related research, and you can even set up email alerts to new research.

Use the link to Google Scholar on the databases page of your campus Library website:

- Dunedin: www.otago.ac.nz/library/databases
- Christchurch: www.otago.ac.nz/christchurch/library/offcampus/
- Wellington: www.otago.ac.nz/wellington/library/

By using this link to Google Scholar, you will be able to see which results are available through the Library's database and e-journal subscriptions (they will have Otago Article Link next to them as shown below). Items that don't have the Otago Article Link can be requested using the Library Interloans service.

The Otago Article Link in Google Scholar results will redirect you to the article record in Library Search / Ketu and provide a link to the article in one of the Library databases.

See the screenshot in the photo gallery below.

Finding Related Research

Use the Cited by and Related articles links in Google Scholar to find related research.

Found an article that is spot on for your topic? Search for it in Google Scholar and use the Cited by link to access other research that has cited it. The Related articles link will help you find other articles on a related topic.

Click the image below to see it more clearly.

Google Scholar Email Alerts

If you'd like to be alerted to additional research matching a search you've done in Google Scholar, use the create alert link to set up an email alert.

The graphic below shows the alert link.

Library eBooks in a nutshell

The Library subscribes to a large number of eBooks which are available at any time.

The e-books in Library Search/Ketu results some from a variety of publishers and most can be read online or downloaded to your computer and a variety of iOS and android devices (although some can only be downloaded for specified time).

The e-books you have access to are in the version of Library Search/Ketu on your campus Library website (i.e., Otago, the Canterbury Medical School Library or the Wellington Medical School Library).

Although the e-books may have a different look and functionality, depending on the provider, many require that you install free Adobe software if you wish to download them:

- Computers, laptops and notebooks require Adobe Digital Editions: adobe.com/solutions/ebook/digital-editions/download.html
- Mobile devices require Adobe Bluefire Reader: bluefirereader.com/ios-and-android-

apps.html

- If you have any problems using the Library e-books, please email: ask.library@otago.ac.nz or phone 0800 DISTANT

Finding a Thesis

Theses can be very useful sources of unpublished research, but they can also be hard to locate.

Theses from the University of Otago

OUR Archive (ourarchive.otago.ac.nz) is the University of Otago's research repository and that's where you can search for recent University of Otago theses.

Theses from other New Zealand institutions

NZ Research (nzresearch.org.nz) lets you search across the research repositories of other NZ tertiary institutions, including OUR Archive.

Te Puna (tepuna.on.worldcat.org) enables you to search across all NZ library catalogues and this makes it great for finding NZ theses published before 2010. A search tip: make sure you add thesis to your search (e.g. thesis nursing mental illness). Request theses found on Te Puna, and not available online, using the Interloan service.

International Thesis Databases and Repositories

These are listed in the Thesis Information Guide (otago.libguides.com/thesisinformation) on the Find page. If you can't access the entire thesis online, make a request using the Interloan service - www.otago.ac.nz/library/interloan.html

Charges for requesting theses

Requests for theses held in New Zealand and Australia are free. There may be a charge of $25 for overseas thesis requests, but the Interloan team will always check with you first.

References, Citations Styles, and Reference Management Software

A reference (also called a citation) provides publication details about a source of information so it can be found by others.

Citation Styles

There are a variety of ways to format references, and these are often referred to as citation styles. Academic departments tend to use different citation styles and the Library has an online Citation/Referencing Styles guide - otago.libguides.com/managingreferences - for the following styles:

- APA (American Psychological Association)
- Chicago A
- Chicago B
- Harvard
- MLA (Modern Language Association), and
- Vancouver

If you need any help with referencing, contact your Subject Librarian: otago.libguides.com/liaison

Reference Management Software - EndNote

Reference management software can retrieve and store the publication details of your sources of information (e.g., books, articles, websites, theses, etc.) and help you create reference lists and bibliographies for your assignments/thesis. The University provides subsidised access, training, and support for the reference management software EndNote.

EndNote is available from ITS, and ITS and the Library can help you use it. You'll find information about getting and using Endnote from the Managing your references page under Endnote: otago.libguides.com/managingreferences.

There is also open source reference management software such as Mendeley and Zotero. Information about these is available at: otago.libguides.com/managingreferences where can download the software and access plenty of training and support from their websites.

Copyright

The Library, and you, are required by law to ensure fair use of material that has been copied for study and research purposes.

Legal use of scanned and photocopied documents

All Library Scans are supplied to you for your private study/research. You may only make one copy and no distribution is permitted by electronic transmission or any other means.

Copyright Act

The Copyright Act allows library staff to copy or scan material under sections ss.51, 52.56., and 56B. The Library must observe the following conditions:

- A copy shall be made only for the purposes of private study or research.
- A "reasonable proportion" of any literary, dramatic or musical work, including any artistic work that appears within the proportion copy (i.e., we can't copy a whole book for you).
- The whole of a journal article, or more than one article from an issue if it's on the same subject.
- Except in the case of an artistic work, no copy shall extend to more than a reasonable proportion of a complete work.

As a rough guide the Library will generally copy one chapter or one journal article.
