All qualifications are available by distance learning

Qualifications In Chaplaincy

Postgraduate Certificate in Chaplaincy (PGCertChap)

Postgraduate Diploma in Chaplaincy (PGDipChap)

Master of Chaplaincy (MChap)

These programmes are professional qualifications designed for

- people who currently work as Chaplains in a variety of settings who seek advanced professional education to enhance their work or
- people who want to train to be Chaplains.

With the help of Chaplaincy organisations in New Zealand, we have designed programmes that will meet the needs of chaplains in diverse settings.

All papers are available anywhere via Distance Learning.

The Structure of the Qualifications

Qualifications comprise a blend of papers: three core Chaplaincy papers (List A) and a choice of more wide-ranging papers that relate to the general interests of Chaplains (List B).

The Postgraduate Certificate in Chaplaincy involves three taught papers. All three of these can be taken from List A; or two of the three can be from List A with a third paper from List B.

The Postgraduate Diploma in Chaplaincy involves six taught papers. These are made up of the three papers from List A, and three additional papers from List B.

The Master of Chaplaincy involves the six taught papers taken for the Postgraduate Diploma in Chaplaincy and a Research Dissertation (MINS 590) worth 60 points (the equivalent of half a year of full-time study). The Research Dissertation is 16,000 to 20,000 words in length and is an investigation of a topic emerging from the contemporary practice of Chaplaincy.

NOTE: The Programme offers workshops on Research Methods for those who have not done a formal course in Research Methods. Participation in these workshops is required for those enrolling in MINS 590.

List A:

MINS 409 Chaplaincy Studies

Examines the practice of Chaplaincy in diverse settings within contemporary New Zealand along with listening skills, theology of Chaplaincy, and self-care.

MINS 410 Pastoral Care in Dying, Grief and Loss *(Semester 2, 2019)

Explores the role of Chaplains, Ministers and other caregivers in situations of death, dying and loss, and the ways they can facilitate a healthy grieving process.

MINS 411 Chaplaincy in Diverse Contexts *(Semester 1, 2019)

An exploration of the role of the Chaplain in diverse contexts, with particular emphasis on the forms of traumatic stress that Chaplains deal with in each setting.

List B:

BIBS 412 The Book of Job* (Semester 2, 2019)

An in-depth study of the book of Job in light of recent research.

CHTH 415 Reconciliation, Christian Ethics and Public Theology *(Semester 2, 2019)

Theoretical and practical approaches to reconciliation in the aftermath of division and violence, including the ethical challenges in transforming personal, social and structural relationships damaged by conflict. The paper explores both the pitfalls and the positive potential that Christian theology might offer.

CHTH 422 Citizenship, Democracy and Discipleship *(Semester 1, 2019)

Examination of the relationship between Christian discipleship and democratic citizenship, with particular attention to the biblical and theological principles that support robust civic engagement by Christians.

CHTH 423 Theology and Human Well-Being* (Semester 1, 2019)

An investigation of Christian understandings of what it is to be human, and their implications for human well-being in contemporary society.

* These papers are on offer in 2019

Papers available in future years:

MINS 408 Cultures, Migration and Faith

MINS 412 Church in Mission: Theology in Changing Cultures

MINS 413 Missional God, Missional People

BIBS 413 God, Suffering and Justice

CHTH 416 The Theology of Bonhoeffer

CHTH 420 Public Theology and Social Justice

WHAT A CURRENT STUDENT SAYS

Lisa Barlow, a current Master of Chaplaincy student writes

I am now working part time in a Chaplaincy position whilst studying towards the Master of Chaplaincy at Otago University. My Bachelor of Theology totally equipped me for this ministry.

The Master of Chaplaincy degree, in particular all the pastoral papers I studied with various staff, have formed the ministry I do in a significant and profound way. I love my studies through Otago University and just wish I had more time to do more. I am always promoting this University and this Department now that I live in Wellington. Thank you Otago and thank you Theology.

Admission

Admission requirements for the Postgraduate Certificate, Diploma and Masters programme are a degree or equivalent three-year qualification (not necessarily in Theology) with satisfactory grades. In cases where a person's prior qualifications do not include theological study, the student may be required to undertake one or more 300-level papers in Theology in order to satisfy the prerequisites for specific 400-level papers in Biblical Studies (BIBS) and/or Christian Thought and History (CHTH). Direct Admission to the Master of Chaplaincy requires an average of B+ in the 300-level papers of the undergraduate degree programme.

From the Certificate, to the Diploma, to the Master In Chaplaincy

Students who have completed the three-paper Postgraduate Certificate in Chaplaincy may go on to complete the Postgraduate Diploma in Chaplaincy by taking three additional papers. Students who have completed the Postgraduate Diploma in Chaplaincy may complete the Master of Chaplaincy by undertaking workshops on Research Methods and the 16,000-20,000-word Research Project.
