Trajectories of Care at the End of Life in New Zealand

Heather McLeod, Visiting Professor, University of Auckland
Friday 24th May 2019, 12.30-1.15pm

The success of the health system means people are living longer, but potentially also with longer and more complex trajectories at the end of life. This research, commissioned by the Ministry of Health, uses linked data to identify five trajectory groups. The utilisation of services and time spent in the community is explored in novel ways.

Heather McLeod will present this seminar on behalf of June Atkinson and herself. Heather is a visiting professor of Statistics and Actuarial Science and has a visiting research appointment at the University of Auckland. June Atkinson is with Public Health at the University of Otago Wellington.
